series, it is probable that this book would not have been prepared. The past year has been one of extraordinary labors and anxieties for the ministry of Eastern Massachusetts. While, from this cause, the sermons, in some respects, may have suffered, in others, we trust, they have gained, especially in this, - that we have sought to infuse into them something of the fervor and the practical direction of the great revival. It will be noticed that we introduce some new writers. To many, they will need no introduction. We call attention, also, to the fact that there is no coupling of topics in

And so the enemies of the gospel simply helped it on by their efforts to destroy it. They added to the splendor of its achievements, and increased its attractions. By such qualities the early Christians prevailed. God grant a return of the primitive Christianity, that, filled with the same spirit that so qualified the apostles, the church of to-day may glorify Jesus' name, and carry forward with success the work of the gospel! THE SEVEN CHOSEN. LESSON. Acts, vi. 1-15. GOLDEN TEXT. I Tim. iii. 13. Acts, Vi. 5-7. "And they chose Stephen, a man full offaith and of the Holy Ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Micanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicholas a proselyte of Antioch, whom they set before the apostles; and when they had prayed, they laid their hands on them. And the word of God increased: and the number of the disciples multiplied in "Jerusalem greatly." The text records the establishment of the deacon's office in the early Christian church. What was the original purpose of the office? A glance at the circumstances under which it was created will show. In the short space of a few days after the day of Pentecost, the Christian church, under the fresh baptism of the Holy Spirit, and the extraordinary power given to the preaching of the apostles, had increased from a small number of disciples to a multitude of thousands. This sudden enlargement greatly increased the burdens of the apostles. There were many poor people among the believers who needed pecuniary assistance, or support. In the enthusiasm of their Christian love, Excerpt from Boston Homilies: Short Sermons on the International Sunday-School Lessons for 1892 IN preparing this volume the aim has been to furnish Sunday-school teachers and older scholars with brief exegetical and illustrative studies of the Sunday school lessons for the ensuing year. The contributors are members of the Alpha Chapter of Boston University, chosen from a wide range of territory, and from as many classes as possible. It is hoped that their work will not be entirely in vain. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
